

Recommended textbooks

- James Morwood, A Latin Grammar, Oxford University Press.
- James Morwood, Pocket Oxford Latin Dictionary, Oxford University Press. (Alternatively, <https://www.online-latin-dictionary.com/english-latin-dictionary.php>)
- Cambridge Latin Course, Book 1 (freely available at <https://www.clc.cambridgescp.com/web-book-1?p=1>)

These books are not mandatory. Handouts for each class will be provided by the lecturer.

Week	Grammar content	Topic - vocabulary	Skills practised	Materials used
1	(Revision) Five declensions, Present indicative (active) of the four conjugations, to be and to have, personal pronouns, adjectives	The Roman kings	reading and listening	handouts
2	Imperfect tense (indicative, active)	Food and meals in ancient Rome Table talk in Latin	Speaking, reading and listening	handouts
3	Perfect tense (indicative, active)	Roman Taverns	Speaking, writing, reading and listening	handouts
4	Imperfect and perfect of the verbs to be and to have	The story of Felix: slaves and freedmen in Rome	Speaking, writing, reading and listening	handouts
5	Verbs nolo, volo, fero, e/ex + ablative, a/ad + accusative	Roman religion	Speaking, writing, reading and listening	handouts
6	Present and imperfect (indicative, passive forms)	Games and gladiators	Speaking, writing, reading and listening	handouts
7	Plusperfect (indicative, active forms)	Animal hunts (bestiarii and venationes)	Speaking, writing, reading and listening	handouts
8	Comparative and superlative of adjectives	Roman thermal baths	Speaking, writing, reading and listening	handouts

9	Test and feedback	n/a	n/a	n/a
10	Present participle, past participle	Athletes and gyms in ancient Rome	Speaking, writing, reading and listening	handouts